GEO. H. TRIBE ESTATE
HAS ESTIMATED
VALUE OF $11,000

In the matter of the estate of George H. Tribe, a petition has been filed in the district court asking that the will be admitted to probate and that letters testamentary issue to the executors.

The petition relates that Mr. Tribe died February 15, 1914, and that he made his last will and testament March 27, 1911, naming Arthur G. Alvin M. and Frank E. Tribe, as executors. The estimated value of the estate is $11,000, $5000 of which is bequeathed to the wife, Emma Tribe, and the balance to be divided equally among ten children and others.

It is understood, from the reading of the will, that Mr. Tribe disposed of the most of his large estate to his wife during his life time, as the will says:

"Having disposed of property to my wife in my life time, there remains to be distributed $11,000, five thousand dollars of which shall be given to my wife for a home and the balance to be distributed equally among the children."

THE BIG LOST RIVER
PROJECT TO GO TO UTAH CON. CO.

The Big Lost river project in Idaho, lien on which is held by Warren Corey in the name of the Corey Construction company, is to be sold in Arco March 14, and, it is understood, the project will be bid in by the Utah Construction company of Ogden. The following letter on the subject appeared in the Arco Advertiser, signed by John T. Henderson:

"Dear Sir—Sunday I wired you that the sale of the Big Lost River irrigation project had been postponed for ten days. At the time of wiring, I understood that such was the case, but later information made it a 28-day delay or the 14th of March, 1914. And as far as I know now, the sale will take place on that date."

"The Utah Construction company, through W. H. Wattis, president, will bid the project. This is sure. Mr. Clinton the receiver had made all of the arrangements to conduct the sale as advertised last Monday. At the last moment word was received from the Utah Construction Co., asking for a postponement as there were some details that they wished to look into. After a conference with one of their attorneys, the attorney advised for a thirty day postponement. This was granted. Today the receiver was advised that Mr. Wattis only wanted a ten-day postponement and greatly deprecated the additional delay. However, as the new date had been advertised at the court house at Arco, it will not be possible to change, the date as has been set."

"The above named company is going ahead on the assumption that they will receive the hearty co-operation of all the settlers and I am sure that they will. Abundant capital is behind this company and they will make the project take its place in the ranks of the very best as it should be, as it is considered one of the best in the state of Idaho."

UTAH PROGRESSIVES
DENOUNCE STATE
TAX SYSTEM

The convention of Utah Progressives adopted, at its first session today, in Salt Lake, a platform declaring for the maintenance of the party integrity and organization and the placing of complete senatorial, congressional, state and county tickets in the field. The platform declares for the creation of a public safety bureau; state labor commission; state good roads commission; a state irrigation development plan along the lines of the national irrigation law; and for the removal of the judiciary from partisan politics. It condemns what it calls the "invisible government" of the state for failure to carry out constitutional provisions regarding fixing maximum rates for transportation; denounces political domination of educational institutions; and charges that the present system and methods of assessing property for taxation operates to the advantage of the rich and influential at the expense of the poor.

It declares against campaign contributions from corporations and provides that all funds shall be raised among members of the party and that candidates shall not be assessed for campaign expenses.

Wesley K. Walton, former Republican state chairman, is chairman of the convention. The convention will close with a session tonight at which W. E. Cadmus, national organizer, will speak.
